MENTAL HEALTH TRAINING

Applied Suicide Intervention Skills Training (ASIST)

Most people considering suicide signal their distress and their intent. Training can help us see and respond to these invitations to help. It can provide the confidence to ask about suicide if we are concerned about someone’s safety. It can provide us with the tools to help prevent the immediate risk of suicide. The interactive programme includes teaching, discussion, videos and skills practice.

Participants on this training often include:
- People concerned about family or friends
- Counsellors, teachers and ministers
- Workers in health, welfare or justice
- Community workers
- Emergency service workers
- Mental Health practitioners
